

Title of Thesis	A Study About Factors Influencing Career Choices among Young Adults in Miri
Name	Kho Xin Ci
Program	BA (Hons) Business Administration (In collaborations with UCSI)
Date of Submission	January 2021
Student Thesis Code	2021/APR/UCSI/BABA/06

ABSTRACT

Choosing the right career path is becoming more and more important for young adults today. An incorrect career choice directs all individual efforts and resources into a wrong direction, when not aligned with the expectations; would not only be frustrating rather draining of the individual energy and wastage of resources. This research will be helpful for the existing to find out Mirian young adults choosing their job in the future and identify what are the factors will affect them for choosing their job. This research presents analysis of research in the area of factors affect Mirian young adults when choosing their job. Salary is the primary factors which will affect young adults to choose their job today. Young adults may choose their job depends on then salary. Moreover, there are also factors including personal interest, flexibility and also future job opportunities. The objectives of this research study were to determine what factors affect young adults of their career path. A questionnaire was developed to examine and attributes that may have influenced students when choosing a career path. The questionnaire was completed by 150 young adults including IBS College.