ABSTRACT

The research is aimed to examine the factors that affect the adoption of E-wallet among undergraduates students in IBS College Miri, which represent the 90s generation. It also includes variables such as gender to determine the effect of different genders towards the independent variables. The study examines the adoption of E-wallet by including independent variables of convenience, security, social influence and speed. Target respondents that included in the research are students from Business Management and those students are not from Business Management.
