ABSTRACT

The purpose of this study is to identify the spending behavior among the different colleges' students in Miri. Over the years, numerous past researchers have studied on several independent variables such as level of spending, type of spending behavior, male and female's spending behavior and improvement of financial management. Thus, this research is to study the relationship and significance of the independent variables with the dependent variable.

The questionnaire survey was being conducted for this research in order to obtain primary data from the respondents which are IBS College students and Fajar College students. These respondents help the researcher to do analysis on spending behavior. There were a total 60 questionnaires being conducted for this research. The findings show that all the level of spending, type of spending behavior, male and female's spending behavior and improvement of financial management have positive relationship with spending behavior. It also enlightens the policy makers to stimulate spending among different colleges students.
